

The Criminal Patrol Stop

"From the Roadside to the Front Door"

Statesville, NC

Criminal patrol enforcement and the continuation of an interdiction stop a function of many law enforcement officer's normal duties is rarely taught at academies and in-service training. The course is designed to address the many issues that are encountered during traffic stops and post stops. This course will also prepare officer's to look beyond the initial traffic stop to detect and apprehend all types of criminals using our highways, streets and rural roads. The attendees will be taught how to identify and locate manual, electronically controlled aftermarket compartments in motor vehicles that are being used today by drug trafficking and terrorist organizations as well as the use of K-9's during interdiction stops.

The attendees of this course will not only be taught how to preserve this valuable intelligence, but also how to rapidly progress the "interdiction encounter" into a successful controlled delivery. The properly trained interdiction officer and narcotic investigator can work together and watch the fruits of the labor grow into a vast, complex conspiracy investigations, which can ultimately be the piece of the puzzle, which could fully dismantle major drug trafficking and criminal organizations.

The instructors for the course will be Trp/ DEA TFO Branson Perry (OHP), Lt. Gary Simpson and Retired Task Force Agent Alex Gonzalez. The instructors have a combined 74 years of experience in law enforcement and have trained thousands of law enforcement personnel throughout the nation as well as internationally. Perry, Simpson and Gonzalez are all subject matter experts in the topics that will be discussed in the course.
